

RED WOMAN

Red Woman, painted in 1911 by Franz Marc, depicts a female nude standing in a landscape.

Franz Marc belonged to the Blue Rider group, a key part of the Expressionist movement.

The group believed in the symbolic association of colour.

This image is characterised with bold, semi-abstract shapes and strong primary colours. Marc used colours which had a spiritual and emotive value to him.

